

Terms And Conditions

Please read the following Terms and Conditions("Terms of Service", "Terms of Use", "Terms") thoroughly before entering into client-service relationships with the <https://stakingbige.com>, by and through <https://stakingbige.com> (the "Website"), which is running, hosting, providing staking services via validating nodes across different blockchain networks.

Once an individual accesses the Website, starts using the Website functionality or any other Stakingbridge Service, including Our staking Platform, but not limited to, providing or submitting any information to Us, an individual is consent and agrees with these Terms of Use.

Any User of the platform("Client", "User", or "Individual"), gives an agreement to stay compliant these Terms of Use and other policies, procedures or rules imposed by the Service. Moreover, Terms and Conditions, as well as other policies, procedures, or rules, are subject to change and the Service leaves itself the right to modify them without noticing its Clients. In case you do not agree with these Terms and Conditions, you are restricted to view or use the Website or Stakingbridge services.

Regulatory Compliance

You, as a Client, must warrant and represent that your Service usage will stay compliant with all applicable regulations and laws. You are completely responsible for understanding whether or not the Stakingbridge Service is suitable for you in respect of such data privacy laws and regulations as GLB, HIPAA, GDPR, similar or any other applicable laws. In case you use Our Service and you are the subject to the aforementioned laws or regulations, then Stakingbridge is not liable if the Platform doesn't meet those required criteria.

Moreover, you take complete responsibility for any other laws and regulations in your jurisdiction whether they restrict or allow you to use such services as Stakingbridge. Stakingbridge is not liable for any of your actions that violate your laws in your jurisdiction through the usage of the Service.

Ownership and Intellectual Property

Stakingbridge owns all proprietary rights in the Service which include the domain ("<https://Stakingbridge.com>"), such marketing materials as logos, color schemes, design, and also, but not limited to, copyrights, trademarks, trade secrets, service marks, development practices, proprietary software, and other intellectual property rights. You as a Client is obligated to respect all intellectual property of the Stakingbridge mentioned above, which are protected by law.

Stakingbridge Service Provision and Termination

Stakingbridge provides Staking services to Clients using validating nodes. The Service chooses by itself the necessary hardware and network requirements to provide a stable and efficient Staking service to Clients. Stakingbridge holds responsibility for server maintenance, new hardware installation, or any server upgrades, software updates and covers all costs associated with these types of operations. Stakingbridge does not interact directly with user funds at any time. The management and control of the balances is done by the smart contracts provided by the blockchains with which we operate and the users themselves.

Links To Other Resources

We encourage our users to stay vigilant when opening different links on our website that lead to other websites that we have no control of. When you open other websites, then you have to read their Privacy Policy, and in this case, the Stakingbridge is not responsible for any practices and services of any third party sites.
